

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

I live on [REDACTED] and one of the only little bits of joy in my life, is getting home from work and sitting in the garden looking onto the canal banking, with its beautiful trees, vast array of birds, wild flowers, bugs, foxes and rabbits. Seeing the amazement of kids and adults alike as they look out for the birds, animals and creatures with wondrous joy. And you are proposing future generations will look onto a dual carriageway. You make me sick! And after you are finished decimating the lives of many, once again for the benefit of the few. Expect sheer rage, as I think you underestimate the importance of these little bits of joy in an otherwise grim TOWN. People's wellbeing, people's togetherness, and people's health is being traded For your Starbucks, for your Costa. For the 6 pound per hour jobs you will create. This is just a warning, not a threat. Do not underestimate the importance of the Green belt areas, in the lives of the poor and working class. And if you take them away, expect unknown horrors.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]