Yet again you are just going forward with the aim of destroying all green space. The only winners are the developers. What a legacy to leave for future generations, concrete everywhere and the destruction of the natural world. You should be focussing on using brown field sites and apartments with shared green spaces. What do you imagine will happen when there is no green space left? And of course the usual lack of infrastructure spending. You can't even successfully provide any leisure facilities for south Warrington now, Broomfields is a disgrace.
