I write to object to the local plan. PolicyMD5
Specifically the inclusion of designated green belt land at Thelwall Heys
You cannot raid this green belt land as a first option
More emphasis on the town centre derelict and underused buildings would have been an imaginative way to address housing needs of a town hoping to gain city status.
The plan has no ideas to improve local roads and no mention of infrastructure to be put in place before houses are built
The social, environmental and ecological impact of this plan has not been properly assessed.
It should be the councils duty to safeguard the small amount of country side we have left in Grappenhall to preserve the setting and character of the area
The inclusion of this site is short sighted
If government is serious about protecting green space then local mps and councillors should be advising planners to revise their plans ASAP
