This plan is so flawed.

How can so many houses be needed, let alone be sustainable in this area.

Traffic is already at capacity on the A49 and when the swing bridges operate there is gridlock in the surrounding areas . I lived in [REDACTED] which becomes a rat run for frustrated angry drivers who don't seem to care how fast they go or who they put in danger. More houses means a massive increase in traffic and also a big rise in the already poor air quality. Also, the public transport system is already "basic " to say the least so will not induce people to opt for it and leave their cars at home.

More houses will need more schools and more medical provision on already overstretched services....just where are all these people coming from???

Also, most of them will be luxury homes not starter homes for young people just starting on the property ladder.

My greatest objection is the loss of Green Belt land. The purpose of Green Belts is to prevent urban sprawl and to provide green spaces for people and wildlife so how can this plan be valid?

The whole thing smacks of corruption in high places and greedy developers looking to make as much money as quickly as possible. These people couldn't care less about how their actions affect others, it's all about money, money, money.

Mrs Hilary Elliott.
