Hi my name is Robert Hall [REDACTED].

I and my wife strongly object to more houses being built on what is left of our green belts. We will eventually end up one great big city the way you,s are going. What about global warming I'm sure more housing will certainly contribute to not saving our planet and more congestion and pollution. Putting our children at greater risk from even more traffic pollution and are there enough schools and medical centres for all the extra people that will be in our area no. Sir David Attenborough is trying to educate people like yourselves about global warming and you seem to me to not care about us living here or the planet. So yes we strongly object about your carefree attitudes.
